A Different Perspective on Creating Quality Performance: Tools for experiencing and empowering personal responsibility

Presented by Lisa Aldon and Rebecca Koch

Human performance impacts product performance – if you do not have quality human performance, you will not have a quality product. If you do not have personal responsibility, you do not have quality performance. This seminar will explore the impact your unique and often unseen viewpoints have on quality performance. Participants will experience the relationship between their viewpoints and beliefs with what they are actually experiencing, giving participants a means for empowering personal responsibility for quality performance.

LEARN

Presented by experts at the forefront of their field, sessions focus on skills and offers practical suggestions for applying them in real-world situations.

CERTIFICATION

Demonstrate your commitment to upholding quality standards and continued learning to earn Quality Certificate from the UNM Anderson School of Management
