Maximizing Team Performance

Presented by Sam Hatchell

At Jaynes we have utilized a simple but powerful tool within our project teams, departments and even at our executive committees to create a space that allows us to measure how healthy our teams are. During this session I, Sam Hatchell, will orient you to the simple tool and then have you go through a live exercise of applying the tool to your current team or teams. The desired outcome is that you identify practical next steps your team can take to address performance issues.

LEARN

Presented by experts at the forefront of their field, sessions focus on skills and offers practical suggestions for applying them in real-world situations.
